BRECKINRIDGE'S SPEECH. We can now fill all orders for this speech, for

THE FOOT RACE—SHULTZ FALLS DOWN AND NOBODY WINS—BIG BETTING BUT NO MONEY Lost.—The topic of conversation yesterday, among those not in the habit of attending church, was the result of the foot race between Ike Shultz, of Louisville, and Pack Avres, of Owen Co., which took place sixteen miles back of War saw on Saturday. Three hundred persons went up from this city, and all of Owen county was there, excepting five or six thousand Democrats, who will vote for John C. Breckinridge in No vember. Shultz had the call in betting, and many of his backers gave eight feet in the hundred yards. A large amount of money was wa-gered on the result. One Louisvilian bet $50 against a horse, and made arrangements for a he that Shultz would win. At the termination

t the affair he "caved in." The race commenced with Shultz bounding off with the lead. He gained for the first fifty yards and was ahead at that point about twelve feet. Ayers went up on him slowly, but couldn't reach him. Just before reaching the goal Shultz made a misstep, as any respectable man may do sometimes, and fell forward. He landed on the earth face forward, and, as his friends elaim, beyond the judges. At the time of the accident, he was several feet ahead; but it led to a squabble and the stakes were claimed by both parties, and neither got them. The matter is still in abeyance and will probably lead to another

IN THE THEATRICAL BUSINESS .- Three boys or the purpose of improving their state of impecumosity," broke into the box office of the theater on Saturday, and stole a package of tickets. They sold a number of these to their young companions, who, nevertheless, failed to btain admission. The Treasurer, ascertaining his loss, had changed the tickets, and thus de tected the young gentlemen who were bent on seeing the play. Through the boys to whom the tickets were sold the three little chaps were made known. They are in jail. The same boy robbed the money drawer of the office on Friday of a small amount of money.

FIRE LAST NIGHT .- The alarm of fire at half past ten o'clock last night, originated in the building occupied by Jno. A. Milleras adrygoods store, on the west side of Fourth between Market and Jefferson streets. Fortunately the flames, which were bursting through the third story bors and a very serious conflagration prevented. The fire department was immediately present and rendered great service. Mr. Miller's loss we suppose, will amount to $2000 or $3000, which is fully covered by insurance.

DEATH OF JUDGE EZRA HUNT.—We learn from Lincoln county, that Judge Ezra Hunt died in Troy, on Wednesday evening, without aminute's warning. After dinner of that day, he complained of slight pain from some food which he had taken, but he went to the Court House, made a speech, and at the close of it, returned to his friend's house. He did not complain of being ill, but was engaged in conversation with a young lady, when suddenly he partially fell from his chair, resting upon the arm of it, and life was extinct. His death occurred not half life was extinct. His death occurred not half an hour after he had made his speech in the courtroom. Judge Hunt was over seventy years of age, and it was a playful remark of his, that, having passed his three score and ten, he was living upon credit, ready to be taken at any moment.—[St. Louis Republican. To the Stockholders of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and to the Public. [For the Louisville Courier.]

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Sept. 22, 1869.

Public.

As the Hou. John L. Helm has publicly announced himself a candidate for the Presidency of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and his election involves the retirement of the undersigued, Louisville members of the Board of Directors, this publication is deemed necessity.

They were not willing toact with him as Presdent last year, and are not willing now. They,
to not deem it necessary to restate the reasons which governed them then, but regard it proper to state to the stockholders that those reasons e still in force, with others of grave magni-At that time they stated to the stockholders At that time they stated to the stockholders their responsibilities for the Company, and those they had agreed to incur for the Memphis branch, and that they would retire if the stockholders desired it, and surrender the management to Gov. Helm and a new Board of Directors but the their contract of the stockholders.

ment to Gov. Helm and a new Board of Directors, but that the Governor and a new Board should assume their responsibilities, and construct the branch by carrying out the arrangements they had made for that purpose.

Gov. Helm asserted at the time, in a card published by him, that he could form a Board, but was not willing to involve his friends in liabilities to the required extent, and withdrew from the Presidency.

The Louisville Directory have maintained the credit of the Company and incurred the expected liabilities for the Memphis branch—completed its construction—put it in operation, thus increasing their liabilities, and also the capacity of the road for profitable business.—They were induced to continue as Directors and assume additional responsibilities in order to expedite an enterprise of such vital importance to the city of Louisville and State of Kentucky.

They had not then and have not now any

They had not then and have not now any interests in the road which are not common to other stockholders and the citizens of Louisville. They do not desire the position of Directors in the road except to promote its interest, and protect the credit of the company and their own credit as connected with its liabilities; but after what they have done they do not wish to be dismissed as incompetent or unfaithful to the trust which has been confided to them.

It is evident that when Gov. Helm resigned the Presidency, last February, it was with a fixed determination to renew the contest for the Presidency, and the removal of the Louisville members of the Board at the coming October election. It has ever since been known along the route of theroad, and among the employees of the company, and his friends have repeatedly declared their confidence in his success, and that every one of the Louisville members would be removed.

The accidents and delays that have occurred on the road have been misstated and magnified, and as the election approaches, charges of mismanagement, misconduct, and incapacity are frequently made, both in and out of the press, and referred to as coming from subordinate employees of the company.

The Louisville members of the Board have been charged with a design of so managing the road as to throw it into the hands of the bondholders, with intimations that, with this in view, the Directors had purchased and held largely of the securities of the company. This charge is altogether untrue, malignant, and slanderous.

largely of the securities of the company. This charge is altogether untrue, malignant, and slanderous.

The Directors purchased no bonds but those sold to meet urgent demands for money to pay the debts of the company, and expedite the work; and only when they could not make sales to others; and none at a less price than that at which they were offered to others without sale.

The Louisville Directors now hold less than two hundred thousand dollars of the securities of the Company, and those were not purchased for speculation nor investment, but to promote and expedite the construction of the road.—They now find that everything done by them in the purchase of bonds and raising money for the prosecution of the work, and the payment of its debts, is placed to sinister designs.

It seems impossible for some friends of Gov. Helm to conceive that these purchases could have been made, and liabilities incurred by the Directory, without the vile intention of securing the road for their own benefit by the means of these bonds and debts.

In March last, the Directors passed resolutions in favor of establishing a sinking fund out of the earnings of the road sufficient to pay the interest and principal of the debts of the company, in the course of thirty years, and published the same, with certain estimates of the earnings of the road, for the information of the stockholders, and stated that they would be laid before them at the October meeting, thus proposing the only policy which would certainly meet the bonds of the Company at maturity, and preserve the road to the stockholders.

After the publication of these resolutions, the attack of those wishing the removal of Louisville members of the Board, was changed, the purport of the estimates misstated, and the Directory charged with a design to depreciate the stock and purchase it, and thus become the owners of the road: This imputation was directly contradictory to the first mentioned, but equally untrue, equally malignant, and equally slanderous.

If the estimate of the earnings of the imself. ond proved too small, so much the better for the tockholders; but in no event could such estimates change results.

Another charge against the management of the road, is the high salaries of some of the employees—there has been no salary increased since Gov. Helm resigned the Presidency, and those were fixed with the sanction of his votes; yet it is expected the Governor on re-election will reduce the salaries and introduce greater economy to the management.

The Louisville Directors have had the management and have seen no good cause to re-give their whole time to the duties of the compensation for their services, and of dismissing them when they fall to discharge their duties properly, and keeping no supernumeraries.

Another complaint is, that the counties have Another complaint is, that the counties have no voice in the management. The State of Tennessee has three directors, two are appointed by the Governor of that State, and one of those elected by the stockholders is required by the Charter to reside in Tennessee, leaving but six for the State of Kentucky. The necessity of having a sufficient number in Louisville to form a Board at any time, has been the cause of the election of the remaining six in Louisville. The present arrangement of the Board was made with the sanction and advice of Governor Helm himself, and it is remarkable that he never found it objectionable until in want of votes

Helm himself, and it is remarkable that he never found it objectionable until in want of votes for the Presidency.

It is understood he now proposes the election of at least two from the counties, under the expectation that the Tennessee members and the county members will elect him President.

The Louisville members do not care where the Directors reside, so that prompt meetings of the Board can be had in emergencies, and that the new members of the Board be able and willing to assume their proportion of the liabilities and increase them if necessary to maintain the credit of the Company.

Whilst the road was being constructed, it was convenient to have a majority of the Board residents of Louisville, and the present members may have been selected because of this, and of their willingness to lend their credit to the road, and it may prove convenient to continue this their willingness to lend their credit to the road, and it may prove convenient to continue this arrangement until the road is fully complete and the floating debt discharged.

The imputation attempted to be cast upon the integrity of the Louisville members by interested parties, and the dissatisfaction of many persons in Nashville, because of the construction of the Memphis Branch, which they believe prejudicial to the interest of that city, is calculated to induce a combination to take the management from Louisville and place it in other hands; and these renewed and repeated charges of mismanagement, misconduct, and incapacity are no doubt, made for that purpose.

P. S. Mr. J. B. Wilder, one of the Louisvill Directors, is confined to his bed by indispos-ion, and unable to confer with the Board.

area of Boston, and the encroaching ness even upon those restricted limits, is regarded as a gratifying increase. The returns from g cities and towns, which really onent part of Boston in estimating form a component par its population and con its population and commercial importance, will show an even greater rate of increase.

His allusions to his past services in the war of 1812, and in the public councils as a colleague of Senator Crittenden, and to their present position as men fast passing off the stage of action, brought tears to their own eyes, and bedewed many checks with those expressive monitors of sympathy and feeling.

dewed many cheeks with those expressive monitors of sympathy and feeling.

On Thursday night, at the request of a large number of citizens of Warren and adjoining counties, Mr. Wm. C. P. Breckinridge, of Lexington, addressed the people. His speech was atriumpiant vindication of the principles of the National Democracy. He assailed the vulnerable record of John Bell most successfully, and exposed the vacilitations of that ever changing and fickle politician. In eloquence, sarcasm, carnestness, force, and power Mr. Breckinridge has no peer of his own age in Kentucky. His dialectic skill is remarkable, and always insures the overthrow of his adversary.

W. B. Allen, Esq., of Greene county, responded by assuring the andience that he was an old fogy, and then reading extracts from Washington's farewell address. Mr. A. is an exceedingly elever gentleman, and we regretted his discomfiture, for Mr. Breckinridge retorted with fearful power and force. Col. Kerr, of Chicago, then took the stand and preached Douglassism.

To-day the fair closes. There have been many draw backs to the exhibition, but it has been generally very successful and highly creditable.

Last night Hon. J. Y. Brown, Douglasite, made a speech in the usual Opposition style, a labored effort, and a special plea for Douglas, of about two hours. Mr. W. C. P. Breckinridge, son of Dr. R. J. Breckinridge, replied to him in his maiden political speech, and it was an effort of which an older and more experienced speaker might well have been proud. When told that he took the wind all out of the sails of Brown, you don't get the full idea. He literally downed him—he floored him—he gained a most signal victory over him, and Brown seemed to feel and writhe under it, notwithstanding he had all the Douglas-Bell hollowers to back him, and bolster up his failing laurels. If the boys of Kentucky can all make such able and withering, telling speeches as the young Breckinridge made last night, we say, wo! to the Opposition man, be he Douglas, Bell or Lincolnite, that meets them in debate. He dealt in facts, in an able and convincing argument that vanished all mere declaration and declamation. He felt and spoke as one armed in the panoply of truth and justice, and he had decidedly the advantage over his opponent, though Brown has more experience. The Directors of the Agricultural Association have kindly tendered to Gen. It will be remembered that the late Rendezvous at Camp Boon was originally designed for none others than the commissioned officers, who were ordered to report themselves at that place for theoretic and practical instruction in the tactics. The companies were invited and quite a respectable battalion did assemble. But the proposition now is for a general encampment of the whole Guard, at which every company in the State will be ordered to attend. If carried through, we shall witness the largest military review ever seen in the State.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Sept. 22, 1860.

Editors Louisville Courier: Last evening the Hon. R. W. Thompson, of Terre Haute, made an address to our citizens on the political topics now agitating the public mind. Your city papers had a notice of the meeting, but it was accompanied with no flourish of trumpets, consequently we saw but few of the Bell men of Louisville at the meeting. If they had been here they would have heard some things that would have afforded them food for thought.

The speech of Mr. Thompson was very long, somewhat rambling, and at times exceedingly eloquent. He is unquestionably the best stump speaker and the ablest man the Bell-Everett party have in their ranks. Thompson is evidently a Bell man from principle—a real old line Whig—and he very clearly gave the fusion men to understand that he was not in the market for saile.

The first next of Mr. Thompson's speak was a second of the saile.

NUMBER 73.

The first part of Mr. Thompson's speech was devoted chiefly to an examination and vindication, first of himself and his political course, and secondly of the principles and policy of the old Whig party. He claims that that party was the party of patriotism and conservatism and still the party of progress, and, moreover, that he would not consent to be tied to the coat tail of would not consent to be tied to the coat tail of Mr. Douglas, or the Douglas party, at the dictation of the politicians of Kentucky or the politicians of New York. "I went to Baltimore," said Mr. Thompson, "to take part in the nomination of a candidate for the Presidency, intending to stand by the nomination when made in good faith. That convention was a noble gashering of patriots from every section of the country, and they nominated candidates every way worthy of our support. Bell and Everett are national and conservative men, and we are pledged by every principle of honor to give them a hearty and united support upon the principles laid down in our noble platform, "The Constitution, the Union and the Enforcement of the Laws." We cannot in honor as old line Whigs and conservative men, fuse with our lifelong enemies, and go over in a body to the support of 'Squatter Sovereignty,' and the san thor of the repeal of the Missouri Compromise. Those of my Whig friends in New York, or on the other side of the river, who choose to adopt this policy must do so on their own responsibility, but most certainly Dick Thompson is not going to take that course under the pressure of the silly cry of its being necessary to 'sace the Union."

"They tell me now that I am a traitor to the cause. Well, genlemen, if to be for Bell first, Bell lost, and Bell all the time, is treason to Mr. Bell or the cause of the Union, then I am a traitor, and those who don't like my course must make the best of it. Why, gentlemen, I see by the papers that a number of vory respectable gentlemen of New York headed by Gov. Hunt—many of whom took part in the nomination of Mr. Bell—now propose that all of us Old-Line Whigs, Americans, and Democrats shall abandon our party piatforms and form one grand Union organization, having for its object the defeat of Mr. Lincoln. Why, gentleman, what would this smount to? It would be simply a confession not only of our own weakness but of our own vrong. It would be supply a confession not only of our own weakness porting Mr. Breckinridge; certainly there are, but are they not mainly the very same individuals that supported the Democratic candidates in 1856, and would not Mr. Douglas if he had received the regular nomination of his party have been glad to have received the support of those very same disunionists? You Douglas men further say, that you are the National Democracy, and that the Breckinridge party have "sloughed off" from the national party, like a diseased limb, and are now out of any healthy political organization. Very well. Then the case is this, according to your own showing. Disunionism is now confined to the diseased limb of the party, and may soon be expected to die out. the party, and may soon be expected to die out, while originally it was diffused through the whole body and affected the entire organization. The country is, therefore, entirely safe according to your own showing, and there is no fear of disu-union. The truth is, gentleman, that let who will be elected, they must after all rely for success upon the patriotism and conservatism of their party. Extremists will ruin any party, and I have confidence in any of the candidates now before the people that they are in the main patriotic and conservative men, and that we shall continue in peace and prosperity to fill the high destiny that God in his providence has marked out for us as a nation."

Mr. Thompson had a large audience, and spoke upwards of three hours. On the whole, it was perhaps the ablest speech to which our citizens have listened during the campaign.

Yours, respectfully, A BRECKINRIDGE HOOSIER. The Record of Mr. Douglas in Connec-tion with the Lecompton Constitution. We find the following remarkable statement in the Weston (Mo.) Argus, into which it is copied

The history of the Lecompton controversy and the position of Stephen A. Douglas thereon, is perhaps better and more generally understood by the country than any other political issue of the present age. Senator Douglas professed to behold in the adoption of that Constitution by Congress a violation of his theory of Popular Sovereignty, and opposed it with an earnessness and vehemence which, at the time, placed his sincerity above suspicion, and his consistency beyond a doubt.

Such is his public record; but there is a seret one—one known to but few—which rends asunder the flimsy vail of seeming sincerity and consistency, in which he clothed his unworthy aims, and which forever damns him in the estimation of every honest man. Evidence which would be sufficient to convict a criminal before any court of Justice exists to prove that he wrote a letter to John Calhoun, deceased, free-dent of the Lecompton Convention, advising the course which was adopted by the Conven-tion in regard to the Constitution. To be more explicit, his letter advised the submission of the Constitution with or without slavery, as the meanle might decide; but in such a manner as people might decide; but in such a manner as compelled the people to take the Constitution itself, nolens volens. As we said before, evidence to convince the prove its existence, as well as its tenor and in-terpretation. It was known to have been in the possesion of the family of Gen. Calhoun after his decease, and efforts were made to obtain it, but a failure connected with other circumstan-ces warrants us in asserting our belief that Douglas or some of his friends succeeded in re-gaining possession of it, prior to the above ap-pudiating and opposing ins. Own work of the control of the many glaring inconsistencies and barefaced tergiversations in his political theories and actions? Or was it a deeplaid scheme on his part to give him a ground for that opposition to the Administration, which he had threatened months beforehand?

THE CHINESE EMPIRE.—A letter from a distinguished source, just received, says that the Chinese will not yield to the French and English forces without a desperate struggle. They are represented as being poorly supplied with means to resist the European enemy, their small weapons being, for the most part, match locks and bows and arrows. That the allies will reach Pekin there can be no doubt. The success which awaits them, together with the progress of the rebels, justifies the writer in the starting amouncement that the Chinese empire is ling announcement that the Chinese empire is on the eve of dissolution.

PRACE WARRANTS.—James Keikner on a peace warrant sworn out by Henry Seibert was held to ball in $200 for six months; and Conrad Crille, and family, were required to keep the peace toward Catharine Dersch on the same terms.

The Douglas Appeal to Foreigners. Some Douglasite, with more zeal than discretion or knowledge, is appealing to the passions and prejudices of "the Irish born citizens of Ken. tucky," through the columns of the Louisville Democrat. These appeals really need no response.
The fidelity with which the Democracy of the nation have maintained the rights of our nat uralized fellow-citizens in common with the rights of every portion of the people of the whole country, cannot be unfamiliar to those who have so much cause to remember the 6th of August, 1855. But the assurance with which irresponsible writers approach subjects from which in very shame they should shrink, and the boldness with which they announce the most unwarranted conclusions based upon the falsest premises, require that we should sometimes bestow a passing notice on their pro-

A letter in the Democrat of Sunday, the second from the same pen, among other matters equally irrelevant and equally demagogical, seeks to inflame the Irish born voters of the city against Mr. BRECKINRIDGE, by a reference to the former course of a paper now devoted to the interests of the Democratic party. What this or any other paper believed and taught five or ten or fifty years ago, if of any moment whatever, is far less important than its present position and associations. Actions speak loudr than words. Let us invite the foreign born voters of Kentucky to look at a few stubborn

What is the present attitude of the Douglasites wards naturalized citizens and Catholics ?-First look at Kentucky. In August last, an important State office was to be filled. There were three candidates. One, Mr. M'CLARTY, who has een a life-long Democrat, always voting for Democratic candidates, and, in 1855 standing with Mr. BRECKINEIDGE and his party against that pernicious organization which waged such a remorseless war upon naturalized citizens, was the regular nominee of a regularly called and properly authenticated Democratic State Conention; another, Mr. Bolling, professedly a Democrat, was a candidate in violation of his have felt bound, only to promote and secure the ection of the representative of Plug Uglyism, from whom he has since accepted an appointment; while the other, Gen. Combs, was never a Democrat, never voted for, but always against, Nothings throughout the whole period of his existence, and approved and defended the atrocities of Bloody Monday. The Douglas men in Kentucky, knowing the contest was between M'CLARTY and COMES- knowing that the former was the friend, and the latter the enemy, of the foreign born and Catholic citizens and with good reasons to believe that BOLLING was but an accomplice of the Know Nothing leaders, from whom, in the event of success. he was to receive his reward, used every means and exhausted every expedient to defeat Mc-CLARTY and to elect COMBS, for whom a large majority of them in Kentucky directly voted Is this an evidence of the affection of the Douglasites for this class of our citizens to whom they now appeal? Does this justify the partisans of Douglas in asking the "Irish born citizens of Kentucky" to desert those who so manfully opposed Gen. Combs, as they have always opposed Know Nothingism and Know Nothings, and to go with men who aided ty their votes, and gave the influence of their nan es, to install the apologist of the Plug Ugly ruffians who burned their houses and murdered their friends in this city five years ago in office at Frankfort ? If so, "An Irish American" is right, and his countrymen should, in following his example, turn their backs upon their true and tried friends, and lie down in the same truckle bed with COMBS, HARLAN, and the balance of the old Bolling was used as a blind by the conspirators preceding the last election, and honest Catholics and true hearted foreign born citizens who could not be induced to vote directly for Combs, were prevailed upon to vote for him on the grounds that he was a good Democrat and a bona fide candidate. He thus gotten thousand votes. The election is over. Combs, the Know Nothing, elected. He is installed in office. A fat e. atyship is to be filled. Bot. LING takes the place from him whom he pre. tended to oppose. Lolling, for whom "Irish born citizens" and Cat. clics were induced to vote, asks office at the hards of a Know Nothing, and receives it! There may have been no bargainno understanding-no promise, or intrigue, or management; but these are the facts. Those who voted for Bot LING on the gounds we have mentioned can say whether they expected this

Know Nothing regime.

Have the D sites of Kentucky, then, any an foreign born and Catholic citizens? Have they not betrayed this class of our citizens, aroused the trust placed in them, and handed them over, as far as in their power, bound hand and foot to their enemies? An intelligent people will answer.

Is it any better elsewhere? Are not the Douglasites everywhere fusing with the friends of Bell.-with the Know Nothings-while refusing to unite with the supporters of BRECKINRIDGE? Did not the Cincinnati Enquirer say that the news that the Douglasites in Georgia had sold out to the Know Nothings would send a "thrill of joy" throughout the whole country? Are there not ten unmitigated Know Nothings on the Douglas electoral ticket in New York? and are not the foreign born friends of Mr. DougLas in that State deserting him because of such disgraceful fusion? And yet the Squatters in this State, who are themselves willing, in a certain contingency, to vote for JOHN BELL, of Tennessee, for President, with unblushing and shameless impudence insultingly appeal to foreign born and Catholic citizens to follow them into the embraces of ose who took the oaths of the secret order! The Democrat, which received the congratulations of the Know Nothings on the night of the last election and whose editor addressed the ob on that occasion, and its correspondents seek to lead and control and influence the for eign born voters of Kentucky! Shame!

and the dither branch of the opposition in this and the distriction of the opposition in this Those who oppose Democracy, through the press or on the stump, appear incapable of com pating its principles, and seem irresistibly driv en to the tricks and arts of demagoguery in order to make a fight at all. Were we to attemp to correct half the falsehoods of the Opposition we should require more room than a dozen papers the size of ours could afford us. Trusting to the intelligence of the people, which, after all, is the basis of our strongest and best hope, to correct the errors and the calumnies of the unscrupulous and reckless men who seek by them nion, we only now and then turn aside from ar course to show up some falsehood that is long persisted in.

A leading Bell organ a day or two since said that Mr. YANCEY "was more influential than all others in procuring the nomination of BRECKINRIDGE and LANE;" and in some form of ther, this constitutes half the capital of the Union savers. If it were true, we should certainly think none the worse of either the Democratic candidate or of Mr. YANCEY. Mr. YANCEY has given expression to some sentiments, which we presume the greater part of our readers do not approve nt in no case has he used language more ob tionable than some we have heretofore quo ed from Mr. Bell's speeches in the United tates Senate and elsewhere. But, be this as it nay, neither Mr. YANCEY nor the Alabama delestion preferred the nomination of Mr. Breck-GRIDGE. While they cared but little about men, and were, as true men always are, ready to take any honest man on a sound platform their first choice for President was Mr. HUNTER of Virginia; and in the convention by which BRECKINRIDGE and LANE were nominated, Mr. WARD, of Alabama, speaking for his delegation, named Mr. HUNTER as the choice of his State. The name of that distinguished statesman was afterwards withdrawn at the instance of Virginis, and BRECKINRIDGE was finally selected by a unanimous vote.

Missouri All Right-Gov. Jackson for Breckinridge. CLAIBORNE F. Jackson was nominated for overnor of Missouri before the meeting of the Charleston Convention. He had been actively anvassing the State nearly three months befo the nominations for President were made at Baltimore. While in the midst of this exciti canvass, he heard of the result in that city. As the official record of the proceedings of the Rump Convention was neverprinted, and he had out little time to investigate the situation of affairs, he was induced to believe that DougLas was the regular nominee of the party; and on that ground, while distinctly and emphatically repudiating Squatter Sovereignty and affirming the duty of Congress to protect slave property n the Territories, he said he would support Mr DougLas. For this reason nine or ten thousand Democrats refused to vote for him. But he was elected, and though elected by the aid of Senaors Green and Polk and the strong Breckin-RIDGE men, his success has been claimed as a DougLas triumph, which the veriest dolt in the land knows is absurd.

Well, the Democracy of the State met in Con ention on the 20th inst., at Jefferson city. They adopted straight, sound resolutions. THEY NDORSED BRECKINRIDGE and LANE. And they rill carry the State in November. The GOVERNOR ELECT, C. F. JACKSON, WHOSE SUCCESS SO RE-OICED THE SQUATTERS HEREABOUTS, WAS NOT ONLY IN THE CONVENTION, BUT ADDRESSED IT ! The St. Louis Balletin thus reports him; and we do entreat those who have claimed Missouri for Douglas because of his election, to read his

remerks:

Gov. Jackson said he came here with no expectation to speak, and did not think he ought to be called upon. He was proud to hear the unanimity with which they agreed upon the Jackson resolutions. For three days, "solitary and alone," he stood up in this chamber and defended them, and he was ready to do it whenever they were assailed.

We may differ in opinion upon a mere question of fact, but the principles of these fesolutions he pledged himself he would never betray. HE DIFFERED WITH JUDGE DOUGLAS PON THE TERRITORIAL QUESTION. He UPON THE TERRITORIAL QUESTION. He had differed with other candidates for whom he had voted. When the news of the Baltimore nominations reached him, he was in the midst of a warm contest. He had not seen the official proceedings of the Convention which nominated Judge Douglas; he has not seen them yet. [A voice—You never will.] The proceedings were meager, and by telegraph, and he relied upon the statement of a member of the Convention and the facts before him. He had a high admiration of Major Breekinridge, and knew him to be an honorable man and good Democral. [Appiause.] HE INDORSED EVERY RESOLUTION IN THE PLATFORM UPON WHICH BRECKINRIDGE AND LANE STAND. [Immense cheering, the Convention rising on its feet.] And as he said before, would always defend them. MAJOR BRECKINRIDGE WAS HIS PREFERENCE. He had said so at the time and now repeats it. * * * * * He owed his election to the supporters of both Breckinridge and Mr. Douglas, and some of whom he saw in this Convention.

Bell and Everett in Massachusetts. Our readers have heard of Mr. LEVERETT SAL-TONSTALL, who represents Mr. EVERBIT in this canvass and has charge of the political correspondence of that distinguished gentleman, albeit we never could get some interre gard to his antecedents answered by the Bell-

The Union savers held a mass meeting in Boston on the night of the 5th inst., at which the mouthpiece of Mr. EVERBTT turned up as ne principal orator. In the course of his speech, he declared that they were "all adverse to the institution of slavery," and paid a high compliment to the anti-slaveryism of John Bell! He said :

He said:

"I suppose we are all adverse to the institution of slavery; but we do not wish to interfere with the government of the slave states. When the sage of Quincy was fighting for the right of petition of auti-slavery men, John Bell was on his side. You find him standing firm against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise; and for these things the South calls him an anti-slavery
man. That is the man for national conservative men, a man who is opposed to Northern extremists and Southern extremists."

At the same meeting, George S. Harman

At the same meeting, GEORGE S. HILLIARD, other prominent Unionist, and really a very able man, thus advocates the claims of John Bell, summing up his record in a few words as

"On the other hand how is it with Mr. Bell? He has been all his life in opposition to the dominant public sentiment of the South. He is a protectionist; the South for free trade. He was in favor of the United States Bank; the South was not. He opposed the South Carolina nullification. He protested against the removal of the deposits. Of all the Tennessee delegation, he alone favored the reception of petitions for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia. He opposed the annexation of Texas. He protested against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and resisted the Lecompton Constitution. There is no man at the South who more deserves to be called a Southern man with Northern principles than John Bell."

The Journal repudiates Mr. Thos. H. Watts, follows:

The Journal repudiates Mr. THOS. H. WATTS, JOHN BELL's recent correspondent, and denies that he is a good and accepted Union saver though he supports the Union ticket, because he says the election of Lincoln would be good cause for secession. Mr. WATTS is too ultra-Southern what does it think of Messrs. Saltonstall and HILLIARD?

has appointed Col. R. R. Bolling his Deputy in the office of Clerk of the Court of Appeals in Kantacky. Col. Bolling was Deputy under the late Mr. Revill. is admirable qualified for the place and, moreover, is a staunch Democrat, who support the regular nonmoces, Douglas and Johnson.—[Cin. Enquirer.

When Mr. CLAY, who had been opposed to Mr. Adams, became Secretary of State under the latter, John Bell, of Tennessee, could find no language sufficiently strong to express his abhorrence of the bargain and in trigue by which the believed the arrangement had been brought about. Is there not at least as much evidence the latter of the best of the least as much evidence the latter of the least as much evidence the latter of the lat Mr. Adams, became Secretary of State under of a corrupt arrangement between Combs and Bolling? The Enquirer is pleased with the appointment; but we do not know of one Bell paper in the State that likes the idea of putting Dick Bolling in 2 fat place which so many good Bell men would like to fill. It is necessary, however, to give some crumbs of comfort to the Douglasites until after the election, when we think it highly probable the services of this "staunch Democrat who supports DougLAS" will dispensed with. RICHARD will live in clover, but he will not live long. Mark that, Mr. Boll-

Bell in Mississippi. Senator Brown, of Mississippi, in a recent speech excused himself from paying much atention to the Bellgerines, as the husband did whose wife insisted on his spanking the babyhe couldn't find a place big enough to spank.

OBITUARY. On the 2th inst., at Dallas, Madison Parish, W.s. Baun, eldeds son of Mrs. E. Jane Barr, formerly of Woodford County, K.y.
A dutiful sen, an affectionate brother, and a faithful and generous friend has been horne to his last resting place, produced by the sense of the shaft of that invisible archer—Death.

The pride of his house and an honor to his race, he has been stricken down in the very flower of his manhood.—His form, which lives in the memory of his friends, will rerumble into dust, but in their hearts the monument reared to him by affection's hand will only be strengthened by the progress of time.

After an experience of one year in putting ap Vulcanite Base, Messrs. Fittz & Fulton are more fully prepared to indorse its claims of superiority to everything else as a base for Artificial Teeth. When attroduced it in Louisville they advertised it as s: That it was one half lighter than metal, more deanly, and that they were more certain of getting a perfect fit of the mouth. They now go further, and say that it is much stronger than sets on metal, and less liable to be injured by accident, while the low e brings it within the reach of all. Believing tha their efforts to give the best work at small profits will be appreciated, they have determined on a reduction of their prices. To substantiate the above they pledge themselves to replace with gold, without extra charge, any set on Vulcanite that fails in any o particular as set forth above. They still put up the Office next door to the Cathedral, Fifth street.

pantaloons, and evidently prides himself on the development of his lower limbs. The admiration extends to others, for I heard a young lady nurmur to her mamma, as he passed. "What a charming calf!" Had not the young lady's eyes been directed to the vicinity of bootlegs, the remark would have possessed charming ambiguity, but anatomy was so plainly indexed by her look, that the young gentleman did not feel offended. Capt. Jingles' ward has been rather attentive to the Dowager's youngest "girl," and yesterday accompanied the family to church; but as I detected him in the evening making love to the chambermaid in the hall, he probably means nothing serious. Military men are proverbially gallant.

The number of our guests has been increased by the arrival of a young widow—i. e., a widow by courtesy, for it was a lover she lost, and not a husband. Her life has been an eventful, and yet not an uncommon one. I will give it to you as it was given to me, not by common report, but by the lips of one who has known her from childhood. Perhaps you will recognize the lady, for since she became possessed of property you must have met her.

Madam Montford—I give the full name, for I hate blanks—was born in one of the Southwestern States. Her parents were wealthy, and as a natural consequence the daughter was educated at a fashionable boarding school. Her manners were carefully attended to, and her morals would have been equally well cultivated, but unfortunately those entrusted with the task did not tend for light produced a remarkable taste for reading, her father's library was well stocked with rapontaby George Sand and other ingenious French cooks, and this rather highly seasoned mental pabulance of the state of the state of the state of the cruel parents refused their consent, and locked her up in the library, where she read the Sorrows of Werter, by Goothe, and The Maiden's Doom, by a late writer. The Austrian officer: the cruel parents refused their consent, and locked her up in the library, where she read the Sorrows of Vulcanized Rubber Hose, Vulcanized Rubber Packing, Oak Tanned Leather Belting. India Tanned Lace Leather. A NEW York Factory Prices, and warranted. Send for City Water Works Jose and Brass Fittings at very H. W. WILKES, Jr., 213 Fourth St., Louisville, Ky.

While our export of domestic produce has gone on steadily from year to year, until in 1839-60 it is more than double what it was in 1852.

It is probable that ever since that date Europe has taken nearly all the gold produced in California. We know that estimates are commonly made of an annual yield $65,000,000, which, if correct, will go to show that we retain from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 of gold every year in the country. This may be so, perhaps, but any one who tries to verify the estimates will find it difficult to figure up a production of gold equal to $60,000,000, or over $56,000,000. Fifty-five millions is, in our opinion, nearest the mark; and if this be the total product of California, it will be found, after allowing for species imported, and for the product of gold mines in other States than California, that the actual stock of specie in the United States has not increased since 1854. a contributor of the New York Independent gives this account of a recent visit to the Fort de Joux, and Mirabeau:

Mirabeau arrived at Fort Joux on the 25th of May, 1775, from the Chateau D'If, where he had been detained, upon the application of his father, ten months. He was already twenty-six years old, and for the ten previous years had been the victim of a strange, unrelenting persecution from the same quarter. He appears to have been a frequent guest at the apartment of M. St. Mauris, the commandant of the fort, and at he more aristocratic houses in the town. He was not long in forming tender relations of one ort or another in the neighborhood, but the nost serious in all its consequences originated within the chateau, and at the table of the commandant himself. Among the guests whom he net at dinner one day, was Madame de Monier, daughter of the President of Accounts of bargundy, who had been sacrificed—her parents alled it a marriage—in her seventeenth year to he Marquis de Monnier, First President of Accounts of Dole, and more than sixty years of ge. Buffon, the famous naturalist, had been a litor for the hand of this lady when she was fill. de Ruffy, but she did not entertain his proosals. He was forty-seven years her senior, and when he addressed her was rapidly attaining that eminence which enabled him to place is wife on a level socially with the first ladies fe Burope. She went farther, however, as the orld would say, and fared worse.

When she met Mirabeau at this dinner at the nateau, she was but twenty-one, she was weaded to death with her husband, who had marded her more to pique a daughter who had tanna husband against his will, than from need a wife, or from affection for his bride. She as not likely, therefore, to be indifferent to the tentions of a young man of noble family, and subduling in all his ways as Mirabeau. Nor as the prisoner himself any less susceptible, he man who came out of the prison a Vincens more fleshy and taller after forty-two onths' imprisonment, than when he entered w nnier's charms are conceded to have been of ordinary character. According toher lovers' tement, she had the nose of a Koalama, ghtly reteousse, without, however, any acerbi-of expression. Her eyes were soft, fascinate, and modest. She had black hair. Tenders as and sweetness breathed through everything e did, with an air of ingeniousness. She was ive, gay, and sensible; frolicsome as a child. It when touched with passion, she acquired e courage, resolution, and fortitude of a herog. "If I had not found in her a Venus," Mirana wrote on one occasion, "I should have tan her for a June."

e. "If Thad not found in her a venus, miratu wrote on one occasion, "I should have tare her for a June."

The acquaintance thus commenced seemed have progressed so rapidly before the diner was over as to alarm St. Mauris, who, lough nearly as old and ugly as De Monnier, as himself not without some pretensions to be unoccupied heart of the Marchioness, and he consequence was that he refused her permal application made on the spot, to permit irrabeau to go to Pontarlier the following day, of long after, however, they encountered each ther in the street of Pontarlier, and made an ppointment to meet at a fete champetre, to be iven a couple of miles distant the next day, at hich he had permission to assist. The decided reference shown for his prisoner on this occasion by "Sophie," for this is the name by which he is known to history, led the commandant to ut restrictions on Mirabeau's visits to the own, but the fetes for the consecration of Louis (VI were at hand, and the commandant, for the gratification of his vanity, wanted Mirabeau to be the witness and historiographer of the occasion. This brought the lovers together for the courth time. Mirabeau was a witness of the sommandant's glory, and wrote a pamphlet doou it, which is still in existence somewhere. The acquaintance for the next six or eight months grew more and more intimate, until, inally, St. Mauris gave orders again for his prisoner's close confinement, upon the pretext that he had been contracting new debts, one of the pretended causes of his original imprisonment. It may be interesting to know that the Dowager and her "girls" attended church yesterday. Laura Matilda, however, did not—she pleaded illness in the morning, and took a long walk in the afternoon with the counter jumper. It is the private opinion of the undersigned that her illness was occasioned by an injudicious indulgence in Congress water. It is really surprising how much that young lady's "keg" does hold. This blessed morning I saw her walk composedly away from the spring with ten glasses under her bodice. I am quite confident that, had the same quantity of water been poured into a barrel of Laura Matilda's dimensions, it would either have overflowed or scattered its staves around promiseuously. It is conforting to know that the young lady is well hooped. Gustavus Adolphus was not visible during the early part of the day, but made his appearance in the afternoon, and promenaded the plazza until dark. The young man wears tightly-fitting pantsloons, and evidently prides himself on the development of his lower limbs. The admiration extends to others, for I heard a young lady nourmur to her mamma, as he passed. "What a charming calf." Had not the young lady's eyes

Serious Accident.

ALBANY, Sept. 22.—La Mountain, the balloonist, met with a serious accident on his recent voyage from this city. He traveled thirty miles in twenty-nine minutes. In attempting to land at East Lanesboro, Mass, he was caught in a tornado and dashed against a stone wall, knocking him senseless but breaking no bones. The basket rebounded and elevated to an equal altitude with the balloon, thus clearing the wall. It was then dragged along the ground at a fearful speed, and coming in contact with a tree, stripped it of its branches and tore the net work of the balloon to atoms. It continued its course some distance, when it came in contact with another tree, throwing La Mountain out, causing the balloon to collapse and tearing it to atoms.

Mountain out, eausing the balloon to collapse and tearing it to atoms.

La Mountain was not conscious for near half an hour, when he was found on the top of a mountain by some men who witnessed his perilous descent. He was very badly bruised and cut, but not so seriously injured as to prevent his riding to a farmer's house, where he remained twenty-four hours, when he returned to Lunsinburg, reaching home last night. His escape from instant death was most miraculous, as the balloon was driven along at the rate of a mile per minute when he was dashed against the stone wall. He says it was a more fearful and perilous descent than was made when he landed in Jefferson county after his trip from St. Louis.
